Milk Vending Machine Starts Price Reduction In Antioch Market

Milk prices were threatened in Antioch last week when the Automatic Milk Vending Machine Co. of Madison, Wis., placed a vending machine on the Cosgrove property on Lake st., charging 35 cents a half gallon for milk and 30 cents a pint for half and half.

Milk was supplied by the Willowdale Dairy of Antioch, a wholesale firm which does custom bottling for many firms.

The vending machine price was a drop from 6 to 15 cents under the prices charged through groceries and delivery, and at the same time absorbed the sales tax.

The vending machine price even cut under the 46 cent price charged by Kenneth Van Patten who has the distribution of Willowdale milk in this area.

"It hasn't hurt my business yet, but it probably will," commented Van Patten who was non-plussed by the situation.

Borden Milk Co. represented by Herb Horton had been charging 49 cents and Bowman Dairy Co. 50 cents for the half gallon.

The Powles Grocery immediately dropped its price to 69 cents a gallon in competition and advertised the gift of a gallon of milk with each 25-gallon purchase which would make up for the sales tax.

In Waukegan where the Dean Milk Co. operates vending machines the half-gallon price was established at 40 cents.

An attempt was said to have been made to place the vending machine at the Shell Station property at Main and Lake sts., but at the last minute permission was refused.

Business Men Form Committee to Campaign for Murphy's Election

Antioch business men have formed a Citizens Committee to work for the election of their townsman, W. J. Murphy for assemblyman at the Republican primary.

They are urging every citizen of Antioch to vote for the local man and elect an Antioch representative for the first time in history.

They point out that Murphy graduated from Antioch Township High school, started his first business on Main st., and that his sons now go to school in Antioch. He is vitally interested in the area's problems.

Murphy is basing his candidacy on 20 years of practical experience in business and civic work and says "My activities over the past 20 years have given me a grass root insight into the interests and problems of the residents of this district."

W. J. Murphy, in a statement to the Antioch News today said, "I wish to definitely and emphatically state that I have no running partner in this race. There are two incumbents—I must unseat one of them to win—I am not campaigning against or with any particular one—I am in the race to win—I can only win with the solid support of my home community behind me. I direct your attention to the fact that in the Representative race you can vote for one or two as you like. If you vote for only one Candidate, that Candidate receives three votes on the tally sheets. If you vote for two candidates they get 1 1/2 votes each. If you vote for three candidates it is a spoiled ballot and it thrown out."

The other candidates have strong support in their home areas. As an Antioch resident I ask for strong support from my Antioch neighbors."

Murphy's legislative aims include—steps to eliminate personal property tax—a safety program for our lakes—prevention of lake pollution—guarding of our home rule and the right of home ownership and free enterprise. He is for clean and efficient government and in keeping America American so that our children and their children may grow up with the same American privileges.

Village Board Accepts Knollwood Subdivision Roads, Water Mains

Addition to Antioch Now Entirely Under Control of Village

Roadways and water mains of the Knollwood subdivision of the Crown Realty Co. on the south side of Cross lake were accepted by the village board last evening.

The subdivision was annexed to the village last fall and is now wholly under village control.

The streets are yet to be blacktopped, this process having had to wait until the grades settle. Then there will be a year's guarantee after which the village will take over the maintenance.

A representative of the company met with the village board in its session Tuesday evening and said that building of homes will start this spring and that some substantial year-around residences will be built as well as summer cottages.

The village will insist that all of the houses conform to the village building code.

The new subdivision is capable of approximately 400 residences and will add materially to the growth of Antioch.

Engineer David Miller, who served both the village and the Crown Co., said that the water system has been put in good shape and that the roads are well built.

"It will be an area of which we can be well satisfied," said Mayor McMillen.

1200 Letters Mailed Locally in Campaign for $650 Cancer Fund

Twelve hundred letters have been placed in the mail addressed to Antioch township residents seeking contributions to the American Cancer Society fund, Mrs. John Dupre, local chairman, announced.

Assisting Mrs. Dupre in the task are: Mrs. John Lucas, Mrs. Roman Vos, and Mrs. Roy Murrie.

A card record is made of every contribution and filed, so that it is known over the years who has contributed to the fund," Mrs. Dupre said. "For that reason we ask that the name of the giver and his or her return address be placed on every reply that is made to us."

The official slogan for the April Cancer Crusade is "Strike Back at cancer—man's cruellest enemy, Give!"

The money is used to defray the expense of research, and year-round programs of public education and service to cancer patients conducted by local units.

Unofficial approval was given to the project some time ago, but streets were to be checked before the final word was given, and this has been done.

Complain Village Dump Not Well Maintained Under Landfill Method

Residents of Depot St. Say Garbage Left Exposed at Curves Lots

There was a report yesterday that residents east of the Soo Line tracks on Depot st. will appear at the village board meeting Tuesday evening in protest against the condition of the garbage dump on their street.

It was said that they were assured that the dump on the Curves property would be conducted in the best possible land fill method, but that contrary to promises the garbage is left exposed and is becoming a nuisance.

Trustee Murrill Cunningham, one of the users of the dump, will be present to face the complaints.

"All one has to do is take a look at the place to tell whether our complaints are justified or not," said one of the complainants.

It was said that as a landfill project properly maintained there will be no objection.

Dr. Kenneth W. Lund Addresses Faculty of Antioch High School

Dr. Kenneth W. Lund, head of the Bureau of Pupil Guidance of the Chicago Public Schools, was the speaker at the monthly professional meeting of the faculty of the Antioch Township High school. His comments centered around the following three points in dealing with others:

Pupils, also people, properly motivated will work positively and effectively for personal and social rewards. People rarely behave in an intellectual and rational manner for emotions, sentiments, and feelings play a large part in what we do. Logical reasoning often fails to change behavior.

Dr. Lund went on to list the following necessities for high group morale: Everybody must know what he is trying to do, that is, have a goal; morale goes up when everyone has a sense of advance; morale goes up when there is threat to the group; morale is fostered when free two-way communication is experienced; and group morale grows with participation, where the individual shares rather than dominates.

Dr. Lund was secured through the efforts of Miss Thresa Wehr, Miss Carol Bean and Robert Lambert were in charge of the social hour that followed.

Capt. Harper to Address Methodist Men Monday

Capt. David Harper, chief of administration command at Great Lakes Naval Training center, will show Pacific action pictures and outline the present day plan should another war develop, during his talk before the Methodist Men's club Monday.

The program will follow the dinner at 6:30 p.m. in Wesley hall.

Capt. Harper, president of the club, urges all members and all other interested persons to attend the meeting.

Roy Kufalk, chairman of the Red Cross Fund Reward Roy Kufalk, chairman of the Red Cross membership campaign said that $252 had been given in Antioch township which has a goal of $2,000. Lake Villa with a goal of $1,500 has given $70 and Grant with a goal of $750 has given $49 so far.

Village Increases Water-Sewer Rates To Meet Expenses

Small Users Lose Discount; Big Users Also Pay Much More

Water and sewer service rates were increased in Antioch through an ordinance passed last evening by the village board in special session.

The only increase in the average user will feel will be the elimination of the 10 per cent discount which no longer will be given for prompt payment. A penalty of 10 per cent will be charged, however, of the bill is not paid within 20 days.

It is the big users who have been getting water for less than cost who will feel the increase.

The Antioch patrons will not pay the increase until the next quarter which starts May 1 and ends July 31. The next bill will show no change.

The new rates on water will be as follows:

First 6,000 gallons per quarter or less, $2; over 6,000 but less than 25,000 per quarter 28c per 1,000; over 25,000 gal. but less than 50,000 gal. 25c per 1,000; all over 50,000 gal., 20c per 1,000.

Sewer service based on water usage will be as follows:

First 6,000 gal. per quarter or less, $1.65; over 6,000 but less than 15,000 per quarter, 22c per 1,000; over 15,000 but less than 20,000 per quarter, 19c per 1,000; over 20,000 gal. but less than 25,000 per quarter, 16c; over 25,000 gal. but less than 50,000 gal. per quarter, 15c; over 50,000 gal. per quarter, 10c.

"We should have raised our rates 15 years ago," commented Art Hawkins, chairman of the sewer and water committee. "We should have money on hand to replace equipment when it wears out or breaks, and we never have done that," he added.

The rates were suggested by the bond house that handled the village bonds on the new sewer and water extension and well.

The new well and pump are used occasionally to keep them operating, but have never been officially placed in operation although they can be at a moment's notice.

The trustees plan to check on the amount of water pumped and the amount metered for bills to see whether there is any undue leakage.

Before the board passed the rate ordinance Mayor James McMillen and the members studied rates for other villages of comparable sizes to ascertain whether the rates in any bracket were too high and found that they are actually lower by far.

The meeting for action on the water-sewer ordinance was first set for Monday evening but the board lacked a quorum. The return of Trustee John M. Blackman from vacation provided the quorum Tuesday evening. Present were Hawkins, Blackman, George F. Garland, and Murrill Cunningham.

The Fight Continues

Some optimists seem to believe that the overall policies of the present national administration mean that the trend toward socialization of enterprise, which has been most marked and most costly to the taxpayers in the field of electric power development, has not only been checked, but has been reversed.

That is a highly dangerous assumption. A far wiser view was recently expressed by the president of the National Reclamation Association when he said: "We are not through with the public power issue. It will continue in political debates in coming political campaigns. The hostility engendered against privately owned electric utilities, which had its origin in the sins of some of the operators in the 1920's, has served as a fine campaign issue for more than a quarter of a century. Out of these emotion-packed tirades has developed a theory that the federal government has a primary responsibility to provide electric service to the American people. This theory is neither true in fact nor possible of accomplishment."

Those who believe in socialism are well organized. They haven't given up. They are simply awaiting their chance. Here's one more case where eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, and we should never forget it.

The Deadliest Killer

Every American was horrified at the ghastly death toll of the Korean War.

Yet last year alone accidental deaths accounted for three times as many victims as that war. Some 95,000 people died unnecessarily—traffic accidents being the Number 1 killer with 38,000—and 9,600,000 were injured. The economic cost to the nation is estimated at more than $9,000,000,000.

The president of the National Safety Council made a memorable commentary: "We do not believe that any civilized nation can long endure this tragic and disgraceful waste of manpower and resources from accidents that are avoidable."

$5,000,000.00 for Betterment

The American public wants the highest possible standards of service from retail business. Some figures recently released by Chain Store Age certainly indicate that it is getting it.

In the seven-year period, 1947-53, a grand total of more than $5,000,000,000 was spent on building, remodeling and modernizing chain stores alone. About three-fifths of this was spent by the chains themselves and the balance by property owners from whom they rent. Other kinds of stores also spent huge sums for betterment.

The result is seen in every community—in more attractive displays, in ever-improving sanitation and service, in easier and more comfortable shopping for the public, in better working conditions for employees, and in a multitude of other ways.

Coal Has Changed

The human mind tends to hang stubbornly on the old ideas and notions long after changing times and conditions have destroyed their validity.

The coal industry is a good case in point. A very large number of people undoubtedly believe that coal mining is extremely hard and dangerous work, and that the bulk of the miners are ill-paid and live under squalid conditions.

This may have been true long ago. It is certainly not true now. Modern mining is a highly mechanized operation. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been invested in amazing machines and miners are their highly skilled operators.

The progress made in mine safety has been literally remarkable. New records on top of new records have been established. The Bureau of Mines and other non-industry organizations have praised coal in the highest terms for this achievement.

As for coal labor, it is at the very highest rung of the industrial ladder in the wages paid. And the miners have many other valuable material benefits, including pensions, vacation pay, medical care, and so on.

The point is that coal has changed to an almost revolutionary extent. That fact deserves full recognition.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

I tackle any subject. As I see it, the more talkin' out that goes on, the better the air is clarified. You don't have much of a country if palaver is curbed like with the Russkies if you talk out of turn once, you have done talked your last talk. You take Henry Clay and Jefferson and 1000 others with ideas and vertebrae, they didn't all agree but as it turned out we have a pretty skookum U. S. A.

Now you take it with us here around the Grove, we been gassin' pro and con on this idea of the Govt. getting a bigger grip on the hospitals of the land. One thing we all agree on—you can't get too many hospitals. But hospitals are a local concern. Local pride and local financing will do the trick. It simmers down to one thing. If Sambo puts in some dinero he comes back on March 15th and gets his donation returned. So it's our own local money to begin with and nobody can spend your cash like you can spend it your own self.

The doctors can advise but the hospital job is on the citizen's doorstep. I doff my fedora to the doctors—they have no 5 day week. The high cost of hospital building and operation is the first problem—and ferretin' out the causes, she looks like it is labor and taxes. You don't get less taxes via more Govt.—you get more taxes. End of seminar.

HOPS ON EARTH

You get out of a beer exactly what the brewer puts into it. And there's the key to the superiority of Budweiser . . . only the best is good enough for Budweiser. That applies to the skill, the equipment, the method, the ingredients and the ageing.

Take hops, for instance. Anheuser-Busch has always bought the very finest hops blossoms available . . . America's best and Europe's best. The best. That's what it takes for Budweiser.

So, it's no wonder America enjoys Budweiser so much. In fact, more people have bought and enjoyed more Budweiser than any other beer in history.

SHORT STORY
SHORT
Happy Birthday Joe
By Mary Walters

THE fear lay like a cold, slumbering fire in Agnes. There was simply no cause for it, she kept telling herself—but it was there. She could not put it from her.

She felt it more this morning with the wind whistling and howling around the small trailer house. She could take the car and run into town and spend the day with her mother, she thought absently, but there was the cake, today was Joe's birthday and she had planned to bake the cake as a surprise.

She got out the "cookbook" and mixing bowl. She thought of her fear—nameless, unreasonable—and she tried to shake it from her. She had spoken of it to Joe, but he had only been amused.

"Now, what's there to be afraid of, away out here, my sweet. No thieves, no robbers, just the birds and the trees and all this wonderful fresh air. No one ever comes this way—a tramp now and then. That's all."

"That's it, Joe," she had said seriously. "I saw one a week ago. What would I do if one ever stopped at the trailer?"

"Feed him, sweet, that's all these old railroad tramps ever want—a handout."

Joe liked living at Fanning Crossing. He liked the loneliness, the freshness of the country, and being away from the crowds. She liked it too, in a way.

It was when she stepped back to look at her handwork that she saw the man. He was only a speck far down the track.

You could not call Fanning a town since it could boast of only Joe's red toolhouse and the trailer. Two residents, she and Joe. But, there it was, that big white painted signboard with the name Fanning. She could see it from the window of the trailer.

Agnes put the cake in the oven and straightened up the trailer while it baked. When it was baked and cooled she made foamy white icing and spread over the top and sides. Then she squeezed the liquid from the decorator in long, curling squirts making ruffles all around the top. In the center she wrote in curling letters, "Happy Birthday to Joe."

It was when she stepped back to look at her handwork that she saw the man. He was only a speck far down the tracks but as she stood watching he became larger.

The fear came over her like a shot from a doctor's needle. She stood by the window, her body filled with that half conscious dread that always came with the fear. She watched as if fascinated, the lone, solitary figure prodding slowly down the tracks in her direction. And she prayed silently that he would not see the trailer; that he would go on by.

He moved slowly, painlessly, (going nowhere but always moving) Joe said—the life of the hobo. As he came closer she could see that he was an old fellow; dirtied, rugged with long, grey soiled whiskers.

And suddenly, with quaking clarity the cold hard fear that lay inside her rose up into a roaring flame. Terror consumed her body when with faltering steps she saw him leave the tracks and come towards the trailer "house." She crouched by the window in panic. What must she do?

When she heard the knock she grew dizzy and felt a weakness come over her as if she might faint. She tried to gather her thoughts but they were all jammed together in a huge mass. What had Joe said? Feed him! He only wants a handout.

She rose and opened the door quickly and the man was as surprised as herself. He started to speak, but she gave him no chance. She turned quickly and picked up the birthday cake with its white and green icing—and with one quick, nervous movement she opened the screen and put the cake into the astonished arms of the wrinkled old tramp.

He mumbled "something" but Agnes did not hear him. His face was a mass of smiling wrinkles. She watched from the window as he made his way down the track a piece from the trailer, sat down on the cross ties and began to eat the cake.

Only then did she stir. She sat down in the nearest chair and burst into tears.

Tipson Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Following too closely behind other vehicles is a risky business at any time. Doing it when roads are covered with ice and snow can amount to suicide.

Under winter driving conditions, even more space should be allowed between your car and the one ahead. The driver of the car ahead has an annoying habit of doing unexpected things, and you always need time to adjust your own movements to his maneuverings.

When road conditions are such that you need more room to stop for any reason, it is a wise thing to do to leave more room between yourself and a possible source of trouble. Otherwise, even though you see the danger immediately and react quickly, you may find yourself utterly helpless to avoid it.

A skidding car cannot be controlled. Stay far enough behind the other fellow so if he should stop unexpectedly, you can stop, too, without smashing into him or some other object.

For an appointment at the Antioch Bel-Aire Salon, as of April 15 and later, please call our Bel-Aire Salon in Waukegan—Ontario 2-6552. We apologize for the inconvenience of having to call Waukegan for appointments. As soon as our telephone service in Antioch is installed we will announce it in this paper.

A SUGGESTION FOR YOUR CHILD'S SAFETY

Children are always putting objects such as lollipops, pencils, whistles, horns, spoons, toothbrushes, water glasses and toys in their mouths while they are running, riding bikes, climbing, playing. A tumble can cause serious injury to mouth and throat. For your child's safety, as a parent should recognize the hazard and continuously teach the child to keep such objects out of the mouth while engaged in activity that might produce a fall.

Senior Class Play Gets Good Reception From Large Crowds Friday

An overflow crowd attended the afternoon performance and a crowd of 250 adults attended the evening presentation of the senior class play "Down to Earth" last Friday.

As a somewhat different type of play, the production was well received and was regarded by many as the best in recent years. There was no fumbling of lines and the acting proceeded smoothly.

The play was a three-act comedy fantasy dealing with two angels who have been sent "down to earth" to collect two elderly souls, but confusion results.

The play was directed by Mrs. Jeanette Tulumello, who has been absent from her position as teacher on account of a severe cold and was not available for comment on the performance.

Mrs. Clara Hillebrand, 58, Dies Sunday, March 28 At Channel Lake Home

Mrs. Clara Hillebrand, 58, Woodcrest Subdivision, Channel Lake, died Sunday at 10:30 p. m. at her home following several years of ill health.

She was born Feb. 27, 1896, in Chicago, coming to Antioch in August 1952. She was a member of St. Mathew's Lutheran church in Chicago, and was a past president of Pilson Unit No. 825 of American Legion Auxiliary of Chicago.

Survivors are her husband, Edward C., a brother, August Steffen of Dixon. She was preceded in death by two brothers, Otto and Edwin Steffen and a sister, Mrs. Anna Grube.

Funeral services were held today (Thursday) at the Kruse Funeral home at 2132 West Twenty-first st., Chicago. Interment was in Concordia cemetery at Forest Park.

Speech Correction is a State Supported Program

By R. Raymond Westerlund
Consistent with the principle that every child should be helped in developing to the fullest limit of his ability, the State of Illinois provides funds to the local schools for the establishment of special classes in speech correction to help children with speech problems lead a normal and happy life.

In a democracy, every child has a right to expect an opportunity to receive an education best suited to his individual differences. Unfortunately, children with speech problems for the most part, have not had equal opportunities with the so-called "normal children." The handicapped child, all too often, is forced to adapt himself to the standard curriculum.

Discerning parents and teachers have long been aware of this serious problem.

A Pioneering Profession
Speech therapy is a pioneering profession. In America, there are 7 to 10 million persons who need treatment and speech re-education. Speech problems, of course, always existed, but only in recent years have they been classified and solutions found.

Value of Speech Correction
The old proverb about "a stitch in time" can well be applied to a Speech Correction program in the early years of a child's school life. Each added year of defective speech lessens the child's chances of overcoming the handicap. If a child's speech defect is corrected early in life, he is likely to be a much happier person than he would be otherwise.

Personality Problem
For example, if son Billy stutters, he may develop a personality problem. He may feel—deep inside of him—that he is inferior to the other children because he talks differently than they do. To make up for that feeling, he may become aggressive and pick fights with the other children, or he may go to the opposite extreme and be shy and afraid. If Billy's speech problem is not corrected, that same feeling of inferiority may carry over into his adult life. It will bring conflict and unhappiness not only into his own life, but also into the lives of his associates.

Special Knowledge Necessary
According to the knowers report the classroom teacher's knowledge of speech correction is inadequate in the elementary grades. In general, these teachers find it somewhat difficult to detect deviations and defects in the speech of their pupils. The methods which they use in the handling of certain specific speech problems in their classes are not those generally recognized as being the most acceptable.

The Speech Correction department should be as much a part of the curriculum as any other subject and is equally important, since speech always will be a vital means of communication.

The Speech Correctionist is a specialist, but an educational specialist. He supplements a lot of good work done by the classroom teacher. All are trying to help each child get the most out of school, be self-directing and independent, yet a part of an active, happy, social group.

Common Fallacy
A common fallacy is that children with speech defects will outgrow them if they are just "let alone." True, maturation may be a helpful

Post Cover Brings Memories to Firemen

The cover of this week's Saturday Evening Post showing the interruption of a volunteer firemen's dance by a fire call is viewed by Fire Chief Edgar Simonsen and Clerk Clarence Shultz with memories of a similar situation April 5, 1940. The Antioch firemen were conducting a public wrestling match at the high school when at 8:30 p. m. they were called out to fight a fire at the Antioch Milling Co. They were in new uniforms and had to fight the fire all night and well into the next day. The wrestling match, which they never saw, was a benefit to pay for the uniforms. The mill was gutted by flames, and the uniforms a mess.

factor in many cases. On the other hand, there are also many cases in which the child's defect does not disappear as he matures. Although a child may outgrow a speech disorder, he will have had it long enough to cause other disturbances that could have been eliminated from the beginning by actual work on the disorder.

Screening Program

In the state-supported speech programs all the children in the school are screened and children get special aid with speech to improve any disorder—however slight or severe—that they may have.

Many forms of motivation are used with the children and these vary with the age of the children involved. Frequent use of games which involve saying certain sounds has been a way of motivating the child toward correct speech.

Relaxation is important in speech correction. Motivation here again depends on the age group. A very young child enjoys pretending he is a rag doll or that his tongue is a jack-in-the-box.

Face Special Problems

Older children are encouraged to face their special problems directly. For instance, a stutterer is given a workbook of questions to answer and exercises to do to help him know why he has the problem and how to manage it freely.

Parent cooperation in helping the children is of course very important, and parents are directed toward helpful literature and are helped to discuss the child's problem objectively.

Types of Disorders

Speech disorders may be due to organic or non-organic causes. Some usual organic speech disorders are:

1. Articulation disturbances due to mouth deformities, such as malocclusion, cleft palate, and cleft lip.
2. Articulation and voice disorders.

Those parents who are directly concerned with their child's speech and other interested people should inquire about a speech correction program in their schools, and if no such free program is available they should take steps to find out why.

Available Program

Those parents who are directly concerned with their child's speech and other interested people should inquire about a speech correction program in their schools, and if no such free program is available they should take steps to find out why.

The Channel Lake Community club will hold its regular meeting on Monday, April 5 at 8 p. m. in the school basement. Movies are scheduled to be shown. Hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Lorraine Oberg, Mrs. Carol Onstad and Mrs. Emily Rudolph.

New Policy Provides Hospital Insurance For Neglected Group

A new hospitalization insurance policy specifically designed to meet the needs of persons unable to qualify for such protection through employment or family status, has been announced by Loren Sexauer, local insurance agent.

The new form of coverage, Sexauer explains, is especially intended for the substantial number of men and women who lack hospitalization protection for either or both of the reasons that they cannot come under family group coverage, or do not have access to group hospitalization plans at their places of employment.

High School Freshmen To Collect Clothing For Children in Need

During the week of April 5-9, the Antioch Township High School freshmen will go on a crusade—a full-fledged children's crusade. Their weapons will be bundles of clothing, their goal, to help provide sturdy, warm, clean clothing for needy children in America and overseas.

According to Principal Albert Dittman, the local drive is part of Save the Children Federation's Twelfth Annual Nation-wide "Children's Clothing Crusade," which is conducted in public schools throughout the United States under the auspices of the Federation's National Advisory Committee of School Superintendents.

The clothing collected will be used to aid children and families in Korea, six war-depleted countries of Europe, in Lebanon, and in disadvantaged rural areas of the United States, including the Navajo Indian Reservations.

"In Europe, the children are still suffering from the ravages of war," Principal Dittman said. "The need in Korea is even more urgent. Nine million victims of Communist aggression in Korea have been torn from their homes. They have only rags in which to clothe themselves. We must help them," he continued.

Principal Dittman pointed out a second objective of the drive. "Not only are we helping to alleviate the suffering of many thousands of needy children," he said, "but we are also teaching our own children a valuable lesson in the importance of thinking of others."

Federation officials present these pointers for clothing givers who want to be sure their clothing will do the most good.

Most needed is warm clothing—heavy underwear, wool shirts, sweaters and coats. Bundle Week clothing goes to people whose first need is warmth—not style. If the clothing is warm, even adult sizes can be cut down and gratefully used.

Children's shoes are next in importance. Even though scuffed, American's outgrown shoes still have miles of use left in them. Here again adult sizes can be used. However, high-heeled women's shoes are of no use either to mothers or children in areas served by the Federation and should not be included.

Baby clothing is in constant demand. Diapers, crib blankets, night shirts, warm sweaters and undershirts are especially needed.

Principal Dittman stressed the importance of having all clothing gifts clean and in as good repair as possible "because these gifts will be symbols of new hope to many needy children."

The freshman class will be most happy to collect the clothing at the homes. Just a phone call to the high school office will suffice.

Misses Deedie and Mary Tiffany returned home Sunday after spending the winter in California.

Oldest U. S. Daily Honored During Newspaper Week

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—The oldest daily newspaper in the nation, The Alexandria Gazette, was honored during National Newspaper Week this year.

The paper, in George Washington's old home town, began as a weekly in 1784 and became a daily on April 14, 1797.

In its first edition it laid down its policy:

"They (the editors) only observe that every exertion shall be used to procure and communicate the latest intelligence, and to render their paper, in every respect, worthy the attention of the public."

Dr. Edgar Snowden, a great-grandson of one of the founders, was present at the celebration. He said: "The paper did all right by my family for 111 years."

Dr. Snowden's father sold the paper because his health was failing and he figured Alexandria was a town with a lot of past and not much future. For years the population had stayed right at 15,000.

Then the nation's capital, across the Potomac, grew until it overflowed in all directions. Present Alexandria population is 75,000.

An 1862 headline in the newspaper tells of the start of the Civil War trouble:

Indignity Against Church Arrest of Minister While At Prayer In Church—Great excitement.

It's difficult now to decide what crime brought the arrest of the Rev. Kenzie Johns Stewart in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, but as a result of the headline troops burned the Gazette plant.

Royal Observatory Moved From London

LONDON—Greenwich Observatory has been moved from London, where it was established by order of King Charles II in 1675, to a 15th century castle in Sussex 60 miles to the southeast.

The institution is no longer astride Greenwich prime meridian, world standard for measurement of longitude and time. But because any change would affect global timekeeping and render all the world's modern maps obsolete, Greenwich will remain the zero meridian.

To allow for the one-third degree longitudinal difference between Greenwich and the new site, 14½ miles east of the Greenwich meridian, scientists will subtract about a minute and a half from observed time. The time is calculated by observation of the solar system.

Greenwich was a country village when Sir Christopher Wren designed the Observatory 278 years ago, but expanding London since has completely engulfed it. In recent decades, meteorological and astronomical operations have been seriously hampered by industrial smog. Electric railways interfered with magnetic observations. And the glare of street lights and neon signs outshone the Milky Way.

For these reasons the observatory was moved.

Omaha Paper Plays Front Page Cupid

OMAHA—An 8-year-old boy telephoned the Omaha World-Herald with a strange request. He asked if "you could please print 'I love Sandra' on the front page of your paper?"

When the rewrite man asked why, the youngster explained:

"You see, I'm 8 and Sandra's 9 and school's out and she lives way out in the country, and she doesn't have any telephone and maybe she'll marry somebody else before school starts."

The World-Herald printed the entire story at the top of Page 1 with a headline: "Here's Message for Sandra: Wait."

10,000 Jets Produced In Past Ten Years

WASHINGTON—The aircraft industry reports it has delivered 10,000 jet airplanes and 40,000 jet engines to the Air Force in the past 10 years.

The industry also reports that more than half of its output today is jet powered, and that every combat airplane being built for the Air Forces was jet powered.

Although jet plane flight in the United States is only 10 years old, twelve leading manufacturers now are building a dozen types of these new Air Force planes. Nine manufacturers are producing the engines to power them.

ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS

Library News

"The Standard Book of Hunting and Shooting" is compiled from "The Hunter's Encyclopedia" by the author of both books, Robert B. Stringfellow. The book covers all activities of the hunter from the purchase of firearms and selection of a hunting dog to the bagging and cooking of the game.

When Thomas Jefferson commissioned Meriwether Lewis and William Clark to explore the headwaters of the Missouri River and, if possible, proceed to the Pacific coast, he reinforced our claims to vast territories. A new edition of the journals of these extraordinarily successful pathfinders, prepared by Bernard DeVoto, is a valuable contribution to source books of the history of the West. "The Journals of Lewis and Clark" and "The Standard Book of Hunting and Shooting" were presented to the Antioch Township Library in memory of Dr. R. D. Williams.

In "The Mind Alive" Harry and Bonaro Overstreet discuss the obstacles that prevent us from living a happy and productive life. They explain how the tensions and anxieties of everyday living are relieved by recognizing their causes and learning to adjust to conditions that cannot be changed. "The Mind Alive" was presented to the library in memory of Mrs. Frances Davis.

Transparent Talking Dog
At International Show
In Chicago April 3, 4

"Vesta," the world's first transparent plastic talking dog, will be exhibited at the International Dog Show, Saturday and Sunday, April 3 and 4 in the International Amphitheatre.

The life-size replica of a female Great Dane, "Vesta" will be on display along with over 2200 purebred dogs from the leading kennels that will be competing for prizes in the nation's second largest dog show.

Every detail of the canine body has been duplicated in the model dog, from the structure of the skeleton to the teeth, muscular system, and internal organs.

The organs of the body and their functions are explained in simple terms by a recorded voice. Each organ glows with its own individual color as it is described.

The public, and particularly school children, are invited by the management of the International Dog Show to see "Vesta" in order that they may better understand the physical function of their pets.

Named for the Roman Goddess of the hearth, "Vesta" was created in Germany for the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

Eighty-five Students at Central High Complete Auto Driving Course

Eighty-five students at Central High school have just completed a classroom course in driver education, it was announced today by Principal A. H. Erickson.

"These young people have now completed their first step toward becoming better than average motor vehicle operators and pedestrians. They possess the knowledge and the ability to understand what is needed to solve many of our traffic problems," the principal stated.

Their instructor, Elvin L. Conway, has devoted much time to acquaint them with the rules of the road and good driving and walking practices and at the same time has stressed the need for better social attitudes in order to combat the unnecessary heavy toll of traffic fatalities, injuries and property damage.

Auxiliary News

Mesdames Dorothy Horan, Verne Horton and Carolyn Horan attended the Patriotic Conference held in the Morrison hotel, Chicago, on Thursday and each gave an interesting report of the meeting.
